May the love of family and friends help carry you through your grief. Grief can be so hard, but your special memories helps you cope. Remembering you and your loved one today and always. The losing of a dear love is very hard, but your family can find much hope and peace of mind from the scriptures. Let's read one of these. "God will actually swallow up death forever, and the sovereign Lord God will certainly wipe the tears from all faces." Isaiah 25:8
