Wilbur was a dear member of our family, married to Mary Juliet Gray Lindley of Panama City, Florida. Wilbur literally worshiped the ground Mary walked on and took loving care of her till the day he died. Always friendly, warm and gregarious and a helluva engineer from Georgia Tech. He was a great role model and a man we all admired and tried to emulate. Wilbur will be remembered and missed by all the Gray family.

As a kid, I enjoyed watching Wilbur shoot birds in trees with only a slingshot. His accuracy was evidenced by the abundance of cats following him when he packed his slingshot. As a high school student, I worked under Wilbur at Blue Bird as a flunky engineer and most appreciated him as both a fantastic person, supervisor, and mentor. An avid fan of college football, when Ga Tech wasn't playing in Atlanta, Wilbur headed to Athens to watch his second favorite team, Georgia. Although I've been away from Marshallville for 60 years, fond memories of Wilbur Rumph remain.

The Marshallville community and communities everywhere are diminished by the loss of a good man. My parents that very highly of him and his lovely wife. I always admired how self effacing he was in light of his part in the history of the town. Comfort to all bereaved.

Mary, my sincere sympathies are with you, your boys and their families. I was in Williamsburg when Howdy called this morning to tell me about Wilbur's death. There's no way I can be with you this week, but I will contact you soon about getting together. Many thoughts of you and your family have streamed through my mind today, especially my father's pride that you honored him by handing baby Sam to him from your car over four decades ago when you stopped in Donalsonville travelling between Panama City and Marshallville.
