To Melissa, Lora Ann, and John Curtis - my deepest sympathies go out to you at this time of loss and each is in my thoughts. Howard was blessed to have you all in his life and he knew this. I always admired and respected Howard as a man who was at peace with himself loving and living life as only such a man could. Although I did not see him often enough, I thought of him frequently and would wonder how he was and what sort of activity he might be enjoying at that moment. As he and I loosely kept in touch over the years from afar by phone, I especially enjoyed his laugh when we exchanged lighthearted craziness during those calls. Life cannot be explained - only lived and then left by all. So rest now my friend and cousin, and know that you lived life to its fullest, enjoyed its riches, and triumphed over its adversities, troubles, obstacles, and sufferings. Love, Charlie
